Network Misuse Policy

Saint Peter's University students are not permitted to misuse, exploit, enter without authorization, modify, or disseminate University telephone, audio, data, document, record, identification, or computer network systems. Saint Peter's University computing systems are vital to the programs of instruction, research, and administration of the University, the expectation of ethical conduct by all users of computing systems is the same as in all other areas of University life. All users of the computing systems are to respect the rights of other computing users, respect the integrity of the physical facilities and controls, and respect all pertinent copyright, license, and contractual agreements. It is the policy of Saint Peter's University that all members of its community act in accordance with these responsibilities, relevant laws, contractual obligations, and the highest standard of ethics. Failure to comply with this policy may result in student conduct action that is reflective of the severity of the policy violation.
